cept the first and final account of R. M. Straley, executor of the will of Wm. R. Stambaugh, which was continued.

In the Common Pleas the suit of Clinton Mehling vs. Alex. H. Rebert was settled.

There are not more than two civil cases left for trial and perhaps not that many, the two being the Littlestown Savings Institution vs. Lewis S. Harris, trading as Harris Bros. & Cohen, assumption and Peter J. Long vs. The Borough of New Oxford, trespass.

The Grand Jury heard three cases finding all true bills as follows:

Com. vs. Chas. and Eli Sponseller, charged with larceny of harness, on oath of Edward A. Scott, a true bill.

Com. vs. John Sponseller, Sr., charged with receiving stolen goods, on oath of John Shealer, a true bill.

The Grand Jury was discharged on Monday evening.

TRIALS

The first case to be tried was that of Com. vs. Oliver Miller, on charge of assault and battery on oath of Joseph A. Plank. A true bill was found at January court. The defendant had struck the prosecutor on head with a shovel, and blow was so hard that he was unconscious for a short time. The defense alleged provocation. The jury found him guilty.

Com. vs. Chas. Sponseller for larceny of harness of Edward A. Scott was next tried. Eli Sponseller, indicted with Charles, plead guilty and jury found Charles guilty.

Com. vs. John Sponseller, Jr., for larceny of chickens on oath of John L. Dougherty was tried and defendant found guilty.

The following defendants plead guilty to charges preferred against them:

Com. vs. Elmer Basehoar, to assault and battery and non support on oath of Millie B. Basehoar.

Com. vs. Chas. Shover to larceny of money on oath of George Weikert.

Com. vs. James Walker, to carrying weapons, on oath of P. H. Stoner.

Com. vs. Robert White, charged with larceny, on oath of W. W. Ennous.

In the case of Com. vs. Wm. A. Bigham, charged with pointing a gun, on oath of Robert Caldwell, was called for trial on Wednesday. Judge Swope explained that the difficulty occurred at farm of defendant, who lived near the Water Company plant, that Mr. Caldwell was superintendent of the plant and that Judge Swope was a director of the Water Company and was of the opinion he should not preside.

For such reasons a jury was called and selected and case was continued until of next week when Judge Wilbur F. Sadler of Carlisle would preside upon trial.

ARENDSVILLE.

Owing to the frequent rains since the snow has left the grain fields on high ground are looking well. Last Sunday fire broke out in Isaac D. Knous' timberland in Menallen township and burnt over about two acres before it was put out. The fire is supposed to have started from some smouldering coals where Mr. Knous had burnt brush on last Friday and the high wind on Sunday fanned them into a blaze that started the fire. His neighbors turned out promptly and aided in putting out the fire before it did more damage.

Last week Amos D. Sheely shipped 8 young spring chickens to Philadelphia. They weighed 16 1/2 lbs. and he got 42 cents per pound for them. They netted him $6.07.

Pius S. Orner has broken ground for two new dwelling houses that he is putting up on Pearl street in this town.

William Warren of Harrisburg, who left here about four years ago has moved back to this town again.

H. F. Trostle had his barn newly weatherboarded and reroofed.

Last Saturday Jacob Zortman of Harrisburg called to see old friends in this place and spent the Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Walter in Butler township.

Mrs. Daniel Wolff of Spring Run, Pa., is the guest in the home of her son, Dr. Wm. G. Wolff and Allen B.

Trostle, her son-in-law, in this town.

Mrs. Roy Wentz and her little son Harold of Gettysburg, and Mr. and Mrs. John Shindeldecker of near Gettysburg, were week-end visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Trostle.

In Memoriam.

In memory of our sister, Miss Olive Bruce Maring, who departed from us April 2, 1914:

Dear sister we miss your presence. But knowing your presence with the Lord we know you must be absent from the body. So all we could do was to open the sod and lay the body there.

Though we miss you here yet how happy is the spirit when caught up in the air and sent back to Him who gave it. So we say good-bye till our spiritual forms meet each other in the home beyond.

By a sister, Eva G. Shryock.

A man or woman might as well starve outright as to take food into the stomach and not have it assimilated, yet in Gettysburg as well as in every other town and city, there are many people who are thin, pale and seem underfed, simply because the food they eat is not assimilated and fails to make good blood and tissue flesh.

Samosa, the wonderful flesh-forming food, taken before or after meals, mixes with the food so that it is assimilated by the system and makes rich blood and plumpness.

NEW DIRECTORY OF ADAMS COUNTY

Our representatives wear this badge.

The publishers of the old reliable FARM JOURNAL of Philadelphia, are preparing to publish the Illustrated DIRECTORY OF ADAMS COUNTY, giving the name, post-office, rural route, and telephone connection of every farmer, business man, and householder in the county, all arranged alphabetically, and a classified BUSINESS DIRECTORY, including all business houses in the county, arranged under the proper headings.

With the Directory is given a complete ROAD MAP of the county, with every road NUMBERED to show the exact location of each farm, as given in the Directory.

This Directory will contain many interesting PICTURES of well-known farmers and business men of the county, fine farms, thoroughbred stock, churches and public institutions, schools and pupils, etc.

The names and necessary information are being secured by PERSONAL CANVASS of all houses and business places, and of the 3752 farms in the county. This Directory and Road Map are so useful and interesting that from our experience in other counties we can guarantee that the Directory will go into at least TWO THOUSAND HOMES OF ADAMS COUNTY, where it will be constantly used by farmers and business men for the next five years.

The Farm Journal Directories are an immense improvement over directories, containing what most publications do not give. Beside all the usual information, they give the names, addresses, telephone connection, and other important information about FARMERS, secured by PERSONAL CANVASS from each farmer himself. This canvass of country districts is so costly that most directory publishers cannot afford to make it, and ordinary lists of farmers published are in nearly all cases merely copied from official lists.

The classified BUSINESS DIRECTORY includes every business house in the county, whether in city or country. In other directories the names of houses in cities and large towns only are given.

These features with the ROAD Map, makes the Farm Journal Directory an indispensable hand-book for every live farmer and business man in the county.

If you are not sure that correct information about your farm or business has been given to one of our canvassers, please send it direct to our main office.

THE PEACE MEMORIAL BILL

SPEECH OF CORP. JAMES TANER OF WASHINGTON, D. C.

Before House Committee on Bill to Erect a Peace Memorial at Gettysburg.

Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the committee, the first thought in my mind is to give my endorsement, feeble though it may be, to what our friend Sherley said about the volume of endorsements of this proposition that could be filed here if that were desirable.

As a member of the Grand Army of the Republic, and once it's commander in chief, I have no hesitancy in saying to you that we could contribute to that number of endorsements most earnest resolutions from all of the over 6,000 posts numbered in its membership. As an honorary life member of Lee Camp No. 1, Confederate Veterans, of Richmond, Va., for 30 years, I have no doubt that every Confederate camp in the South would present the same indorsement.

Our friend Herbert felt impelled to make a statement, personal to himself at the close of his remarks. If it were desirable that my insignificant personality should be known to this committee, I would simply have to say that as a New York boy I did what I could to help save the Union, served from Yorktown to the second Bull Run, where I was mustered out by a section of Stonewall's artillery, necessitating the amputation of both legs on the battlefield and twice since in later years.

I mention this to show you I have had my full share of the physical agony that comes to us who gave blood and limb and almost life to the cause. But, at the same time, I wish to say, with all possible pride, that from the day of Appomattox my voice and whatever influence I have had has been exerted for the utmost peace and unity between the two great sections. In 1877, during my second year's command of the Grand Army of New York, I took advantage of my position to put out an order to all the posts in that department calling upon them, when we went out on Memorial Day, to pass by no Confederate grave unnoticed from Montauk Point to Buffalo, and they responded unanimously. I had the pleasure while living in Brooklyn to send down a draft for over $1,600 to our friends in Richmond telling them we wanted to own a few bricks in their new Confederate home.

Now, then, you gentlemen of this committee, you are younger men than we who stood up against one another and gave and took hard blows in the long ago, you must remember that we lived when on both sides great drafts were drawn upon us—drafts that could only be paid in service, in blood and suffering and in life, and we honored every draft from both sides, and we are proud of it. There was a mighty misunderstanding between the two sections, and I want to say to you, because you are younger men, what I said long years ago, that when the war closed no two classes of men in this Nation were as near together as the men in blue and the men in gray, not only physically but mentally, and if we had only known our power and met the crisis we would have gotten together on some political basis where we could have united, and would have escaped the shame and disgrace of the reconstruction, carpetbag days, and the Ku-Klux Klan would never have been born.

Now, we present a spectacle unique in the history of the world, which was voiced by the other gentlemen who have spoken. But it can not be impressed upon your minds too earnestly. Men who had jumped at each other's throats came together 50 years afterwards, as they did last summer. For what? To justify by their presence and by their greeting the mighty respect that grows up in the heart of every man for those who gave their lives for their country. As Col. Herbert mentioned politics, let me say from the other side of the line, that I always had great deal more respect for the man of the South, born and brought up to believe in the doctrine of States rights, as he believed in his mother's God, who took his life in his hands and went out—I had a thousand times more respect for him than I did for the sneaking copperhead who yelled himself hoarse crying, "Why don't the Army move?" and "On to Richmond!" but who, when Father Abraham called, through the channels of the draft, you would find with draft list in one hand and a time-table of the nearest route to Canada in the other, ready to jump across the border if he found his name among the chosen. And what do we ask? Things go by ratios, and it seems to me that as we have nearly one hundred millions of people in this Nation, what we come and ask so earnestly of you is a contribution pro rata of half a cent apiece from each one under the American flag.

I wish if this measure prevails and this memorial be erected, a hundred years from now I could mingle in the spirit at least with those who will then be occupying the walks of life here and hear their inquiries and the answers that will be given the question is asked, "What does this mean?" and the story is told, as it will then have gone down through the corridors of time, after a hundred years, of the mighty tragedy witnessed on that battlefield in 1863, when, at the close of those three awful days, some 40,000 men lay there dead or wounded, and then low 50 years afterwards came the survivors, with love and affection.

OVERLAND produces
50,000 cars a year

Overland

The largest foreign factory produces only 1500 cars a year.

Overland Model 79

50,000 a Year vs. 1500 a Year

ANY foreign producer who gets his annual automobile production up to 1500 cars a year thinks he has manufacturing economy down to a fine science.

We can turn out that many cars in a week!

For 1914 we will build 50,000 Overlands—the world's largest production on this type of car.

Our manufacturing cost must decrease as our production increases.

How can those manufacturers who make but 1500 cars a year, meet our prices?

They cannot.

Yet there are scores of American manufacturers whose annual output does not exceed 1500 cars a year.

Keep these cold facts in mind when buying and you can save yourself considerable money.

Send for our catalogues. Please address Dept. 28.

Argentina, Brazil and Chile have offered their good offices to bring about an amicable settlement of the difficulty between the United States and Mexico. Both countries have accepted the offers of the A.B.C. republics.

It is said that the demand President Wilson will make for the United States will be as follows, and he will have the country a unit in supporting them.

Complete abdication of Victoriano Huerta and a dissolution of his regime.

Restoration of representative and constitutional government in the republic.

A salute to the American flag as a preparation for the practiced insults to the United States.

Protection of the lives and property rights of all Americans and other foreigners.

Local Option Campaign Opened.

At an important meeting of the Adams County Committee of the Pennsylvania Anti-Saloon League, on the afternoon of the 23rd inst., at the Pitzer House, the campaign for local option was formally begun.

The first action taken by the Committee was the endorsement of the following candidates for the Legislature: the voters of Adams county, Democrat, D. C. Rudisill; Republican, Samuel Eraman; Washington, S. Gray, Gigham.

Following the recommendation of candidates a resolution was passed urging all the pastors of Adams county to preach a sermon on local option on the Sunday immediately before the primary election, which occurs on the 19th of May, or the nearest Sunday convenient and that the pastors publicly at that service recommend the men who have pledged themselves for local option.

Preliminary plans for the campaign were then taken up and Rev. C. F. Floto of Bigerville appointed chairman of the campaign. Rev. J. B. Baker of Gettysburg, was appointed press agent for the campaign. It was decided to hold meetings in every election district of the county between the 19th and the primary.

Cashtown Civic Club Notes.

The Civic Club planted trees, shrubs and flowers on the playground. Bird boxes were put up and other improvements will follow.

On Monday, May 4th, the Club will observe its annual clean-up day. The citizens are beginning to look forward to this day as a regular institution.

The Cashtown Civic Club being the only woman's club in the county belonging to the State Federation of Woman's Clubs was requested by the Civil Service Reform Committee of the State Federation of Women to send a committee to visit the Adams House and jail. The visit was made. The committee was pleased with the cleanliness of the Adams House and inmates and with the general surroundings. The jail building is old and antiquated.

A disgruntled citizen of the progressive citizens say, and they are hoping for a change in the near future. The report has been forwarded to the chairman of the Civil Service Reform Committee of the State Federation of Woman's Clubs.

Instantly suggests the remedy, HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA. A word to the wise is sufficient. Buy a bottle this very day. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, the true blood purifier prepared only by C. I. Hood Co., Lowell, Mass.

CHAS. A. HAWKINS Triimmers' FOR CONGRESS A Few Platform Planks

I FAVOR:
Progressive Democratic policies, as employed in the administration of President Wilson.

Elimination of industrial monopolies and trusts, not mere regulation, which involves legalizing them. Elimination of all special privilege.

Legislation supplementing the Sherman antitrust laws, more clearly designating what acts are unlawful under it, to the end that the business world and all may know what is prohibited and what is permitted.

Keeping out of war with Mexico, or any other country, so long as it is possible to do so. President Wilson's course in this matter is admirable.

The Income Tax, a graduated inheritance tax, and the smallest tax practical upon articles of common consumption, which rests in undue proportion upon those least able to pay.

Special compensation for accidental injuries in industrial pursuits, and the use of the safety appliances.

Laws to prevent deterioration of individuals and of the race, through injurious workings or other conditions, and in this connection I favor local option, or majority rule on the liquor license question, giving the people before the judges the right to determine likewise, in harmony with real democracy, I favor giving the people of the various states the right to pass upon the question of national constitutional prohibition, or any other matter demanded by a very large body of our citizens. The people have the right to change their organic law whenever they want to.

The most contemptible, the most traitorous and unpardonable of all offenses against the American people is the corruption of the voter, whether by direct or indirect means. By this special interest have won and will still seek to win. Democrats should avoid, as a pestilence, those who practice such methods whether in support of party faction or business interest.

Finally I am the candidate of none of the political factions.

CHAS. A. HAWKINS.

WHY THEY DO IT

Peoples Drug Store Gives Reasons for Selling at Half-Price.

It isn't often that we have faith enough in the medicines put up by other people to be willing to offer to refund money if it does not cure said Peoples Drug Store to one of their many customers, but we are glad to sell Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia on that plan.

"The Dr. Howard Co., in order to get a quick introductory sale authorized us to sell the regular fifty cent bottle of their specific for half price, 25 cents, and although we have sold a lot of it, and guaranteed every package, but one has been brought back as unsatisfactory."

We are still selling the specific at half price, although we cannot tell how long we shall be able to do so. Any person who is subject to constipation, sick headache, dizziness, liver trouble, indigestion or a general play-off condition, ought to take advantage of this opportunity. If the specific does not cure them, they can come right back to our store, and we will cheerfully refund their money, no questions asked.

Volunteers at College.

Fifteen-tenths of the students of Gettysburg College, or 250 of the 300 attending college, responded to the call of Adolph Weidenbach of the Senior class, who had been a sergeant in the Regular Army, for volunteers for a military company in the event of a call for soldiers for war with Mexico, and having been organized drills and instruction have started. Mr. Weidenbach has filed his application with the War Department for a commission as an officer of volunteer troops in the event of such a call for such soldiers. Mr. Weidenbach expects that after a week or two of the volunteers there should be a call from the War Department for a commission as an officer of volunteer troops in the event of such a call for such soldiers.

Congressman Brodbeck and His Record.

On account of his record Congressman Brodbeck, now a candidate for the Democratic nomination as Representative in Congress, deserves at the Primary on May 19th, the support of all those Democrats who believe in the Wilson Administration and are in sympathy with it.

Mr. Brodbeck has in every instance voted for the public measures that have been advocated by President Wilson, and has by his actions faithfully helped to carry out the Presidential policies; he has been in Washington constantly performing his duties as your Representative. On the job always.

By what he has done, you have the assurance that if nominated and re-elected he will continue to work in co-operation with the President.

By voting to make Mr. Brodbeck the Democratic nominee for Representative in Congress, you are registering your approval of President Wilson's administration and what has been done, because Mr. Brodbeck is a part of the administration.

You should not only make it a point to go to the Primary on Tuesday, May 19th, and vote, but you should see that your neighbor does likewise.

A new steel drop curtain has been added to the stage equipment at Walter's Theatre. This with several other improvements to the interior of the building will make it practically fire proof.

SAILORS' GREAT FEAR

FLOATING DERELICT ONE OF WORST PERILS OF THE SEA.

Forsaken Ships, Practically Unsinkable, Can Rarely Be Perceived Until Too Late to Avoid the Fatal Collision.

The dismasted, battered hulk of a derelict, floating so low in the water as to be almost level with the waves, is, of course, a very great danger to navigation, especially in foggy weather.

The majority of derelicts are sailing ships laden with timber. They may have been dismasted and rendered absolutely helpless in storms, partly demolished by fire, by collision with an iceberg, or by the mere force of the waves themselves. The crew, unable to make their ship seaworthy, may have abandoned it in the boats, or have been rescued by some passing vessel, but, whatever their fate, their forsaken ship, if laden with wood, remains practically unsinkable and is driven hither and thither over the ocean at the mercy of the winds and currents.

In course of time the swelling of the wood cargo may burst the hull asunder, but until this happens, or until the vessel is driven ashore and broken into matchwood against some ironbound coast, it will remain a terror to passing ships.

Now and again a steamer may be rendered helpless owing to its machinery becoming disabled by shortage of coal, by fire or by the loss of its rudder or propeller in heavy weather. Its crew may decide to abandon it and take to the boats, but if they neglect to open the seacocks on their departure their ship may float for many a long day. The erratic movements of some derelicts are almost uncanny. Not so very long ago a Norwegian sailing ship called the Crown left Nova Scotia for a South American port. It was laden with timber, and while still in the North Atlantic ocean was overtaken by a terrible storm, which dismasted and left it a battered wreck.

The crew, realizing it was useless to remain on board, abandoned it and took to the boats, never to be heard of again, but their ship, although it vanished completely for no less than three months, was sighted at the end of this time on the edge of the Sargasso sea, a good 700 miles away from where disaster overtook it. Soon afterward it was sighted of Bermuda, but then disappeared again, and may still be drifting about the ocean.

Another sailing ship was abandoned off Cape May. The crew endeavored to destroy it by fire on their departure, but, although it blazed furiously, the sodden, waterlogged cargo eventually extinguished the flames. A few weeks later the hulk was off the English coast and it was thought it would be dashed to pieces on the shore, but, altering its course, it proceeded to the southward along the French coast and was next seen near the Azores. Having got thus far, it proceeded to cross the Atlantic, and after covering fully 8,000 miles in its wanderings, finally drifted ashore near Panama.

Derelicts are sometimes salved and bring in a large sum in salvage money to the crews of the ships who tow them into port. On one occasion an American steamer bound for Liverpool with a cargo of cotton ran out of coal off the north coast of Ireland. The sea was running high, signals of distress were made to a passing steamer, which passed a tow rope to the helpless ship. But the towing wire snapped and the crew were accordingly taken on board the newcomer, while the disabled vessel was left to drift.

A Liverpool tug heard of the affair, and being doubtless aware of the great value of the cotton cargo, determined to find the derelict and to tow it into harbor. After a protracted search it came upon it and eventually took it into Belfast, little worse for its buffeting. The enterprising tug netted no less than £7,960 for its share in the proceedings. By an act of parliament, passed in 1896, the master of any British ship sighting a derelict is bound to report the fact to the nearest Lloyd's agent, so that if the abandoned ship is in the track of ships a man-of-war may be sent out to destroy or bring it into port.

Home Made Floor Polisher.
Take a wooden box, such as starch or cocoa is shipped in, and stretch several thicknesses of carpet or flannel over the bottom, allowing it to come well up on the sides and tack smoothly. Make a handle of two stout pieces of wood, thirty-six inches long, and join their upper end to a shorter piece of wood as a cross piece and nail all to the box. Place three paving bricks inside of the box and it will weigh sixteen pounds, just the weight sold for use by women. Rub always with the grain of the wood.

This, with the addition of housewife muscle and elbow grease, makes the work perfectly simple.

Crop-Moving Fund Repaid.

The treasury department during the crop moving season of 1913 deposited in 193 banks in 62 cities in the 28 states of the country where the demand existed, a total of $37,386,000 for crop moving purposes, upon the security almost wholly of commercial paper. These deposits were repayable to the government in installments, the last one of which matured April 1, 1914. Secretary McAdoo announces that the total amount has been repaid and that the government received as interest, which is clear profit on the transaction, a total, in round numbers, of $260,000. The secretary says that the amount of money required to move the crops was much less than expected. This resulted undoubtedly from the fact that confidence in the situation was restored by the knowledge that the government stood ready with any amount of money needed for the purpose, and that credits were, therefore, more freely distributed by the banks of the country after the announcement was made.

In addition to assistance in financing the movement of the crops, the deposit also redounded to the benefit of the government by adding $260,000 to the general fund of the treasury. It will be the policy of the secretary always to come to the assistance of the banks whenever stress incident to prosperous crops make it necessary. The prompt repayment of the deposits by the banks justified the action of the secretary in accepting commercial paper as security for the government funds, and refuted the dire predictions that were made in some quarters that the government would not get the money back. Had the secretary of the treasury insisted upon United States bonds alone as security for these deposits, the offer to the banks would have meant little or nothing, because it would have been necessary for them to have gone to the market and purchased federal government bonds in the same amount as the deposits which they were to receive. The acceptance of prime commercial paper, which the banks already had on hand, made the money easily accessible. Before the money was deposited with the banks all the paper offered as security was passed upon by the secretary of the treasury and the interests of the government properly safeguarded.

Gardens.

Plant a garden. Some of the world's greatest thinkers have found diversion and inspiration in their gardens. If your control of agricultural space is limited to a twenty foot back yard do not be discouraged. It is even possible to transform an unattractive flat roof into a garden. The possibilities of exercise and profit to be derived from the cultivation of even a small plot are greater than one might think.

The use of the spade, the hoe and the rake prove the equivalent of many gymnastic exercises which everybody concedes to be beneficial and few people take. In addition to the advantage of exercise in the open air it is a keen satisfaction to the vast majority of men and women to see things that they have cultivated grow and mature.

The principal benefits derived from the tillage of a little garden are usually exceeded by the aesthetic but in the hurly-burly of every day life perhaps we weigh as of too little importance our opportunities for the cultivation and appreciation of the beautiful. It is difficult to tell how far reaching may be the effect of some slight effort at beautification.

Years ago a boy station agent of a railroad traversing the plains of the Canadian North West sent back home a few packages of flower seed and with such time as he could spare transformed the surroundings of his mean little one room station. Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the road was making a tour of inspection and when he reached this little garden spot then embellished wastes he asked to see the boy and learned from him the story of his garden. As a result the next year all agents of this road which stretches from the Atlantic to the Pacific received packages of seeds and instructions to plant flowers around every station and the custom then began has ever since continued.

The cultivation of twenty feet or more of back yard may not result in an acre of this sort but should prove a healthful, restful and profitable diversion after the labors of the day for the busy man or woman.
